Examples of unhealthy expression of the fifth level system in the United States are the practices of the financial sector that brought the global economy close to collapse in 2008. The eight levels of human existence identified by Graves and Beck's Spiral Dynamics model and the ones I have developed further in my theoretical framework about capitalism are as follows:

The Psychosocial DNA of Capitalism | HuffPost

Capitalism has always been a global system. The development of global trade and colonialism from the 15th century and the rise of capitalism in Western Europe was one intertwined process. The gold and Silver from Latin America, the sugar and tobacco from the Caribbean and, as Marx writes, slavery conditioned the development of capitalism:

Capitalism is often thought of as an economic system in which private actors own and control property in accord with their interests, and demand and supply freely set prices in markets in a way that can serve the best interests of society. The essential feature of capitalism is the motive to make a profit.
